

Allchurches Trust Limited
Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement 2019

Allchurches Trust Limited is committed to preventing acts of modern slavery and human trafficking from occurring within both its business and supply chains. It expects those same high standards to be observed by its suppliers and its beneficiaries to whom the Modern Slavery Act applies.

Organisation Structure

Allchurches Trust (ATL) is an independent charity registered with and regulated by the Charity Commission. Its objectives are to promote the Christian faith and to provide funds for other charitable purposes. ATL's vision is to be a Trust which, through its grants, makes a positive difference to people's lives. The Trust is therefore committed to ensuring that the highest standards of governance, behaviours and ethical practices are applied in conducting the charity's affairs.

ATL owns the Ecclesiastical Insurance Group (EIG). EIG is a specialist financial services group providing insurance, broking and advisory and investment products and services. The EIG business is predominantly UK-based with overseas operations in Canada, Australia and Ireland.

Supply Chain

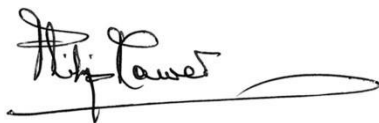

ATL receives the majority of its income from its trading subsidiaries, which it distributes through its grant-giving policy. ATL does not have a supply chain itself, but uses the services of EIG under the terms of its Shared Services agreement. EIG's UK supply chain is managed centrally by a team of procurement specialists within its Finance and Claims departments. Supply chain relationships for its overseas businesses are managed locally.

ATL expects its own business activities and those of its subsidiaries to be undertaken in accordance with regulatory requirements and best practice, including taking a responsible and ethical approach to combating slavery and human trafficking in its business and its supply chains. Find out more about EIG's compliance with the Modern Slavery Act here.

This statement is made in accordance with Section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes Allchurches Trust's slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year commencing 1 January 2019 and ending 31 December 2019.
